Courtney Kattengell is a longtime real estate broker, certified teacher, and Founder of Righting Real Estate. After nearly two decades in the industry, she created Righting Real Estate to support the person behind the real estate professional - helping agents and leaders examine alignment, identity, boundaries, burnout, and what sustainable success actually looks like. Through her Inner Home Method, Courtney uses the familiar language and architecture of a home as a framework for helping people reconnect with themselves and build their businesses and lives from the inside out.
